The form consists of a vertical double-line border on the left side of the page. To the right of this border, there are several horizontal lines. From top to bottom, there is a dashed line, a solid line, a dashed line, a solid line, a dashed line, a solid line, a dashed line, and a solid line. These lines are arranged in a way that suggests a form or ledger layout, with the solid lines likely representing column boundaries and the dashed lines representing rows.
